31 LIVES LOST IN SOUTHERN TORNADO

The Editor of the Boston Evening American has inaugurated a discussion, which has already received enthusiastic approval:

It is based on these two questions: What makes home happy? What makes the neighbor unhappy?

One of the most important problems of life is the

They'll Watch, Pray and Love ~ While 'Daddy' Maloney Matches ~ Brawn and Skill in $1,000,000 Bout

"LISTENING IN" FOR LATEST WORD ON "DADDY"
Miss Anna Ring and Mrs. "Jim" Maloney and her two children, Clare, 2½ years old and Ruth, 10 months, "listening in" at the Maloney home, No. 505 Adams street, Dorchester, for news when "Daddy Jim" battles Delaney tonight.

THEIR PRAYERS ARE BACKING "DADDY JIM"
Mrs. Maloney, Clare and Baby Ruth "just know" that "Daddy Jim" will win, for haven't their prayers gone up each night that he would be the victor.

OF COURSE IT SAYS "I'LL WIN"
Mrs. "Jim" Maloney reading a telegram to day at her home from her husband, while little Clare flirts with Robert Bowman, Western Union messenger boy, who hurried there with the dispatch. Robert joins with little Clare in hope that "Papa Jim" will wallop his way to victory in the great battle at New York.

ARRAY OF COUNSEL.

Counsel then were recorded as follows: City Solicitor Paul Nettigan for Cambridge and police; Stoughton Bell, Judge Eric H. Chase and Arthur J. K. for the defense. The case was for Arthur H. Pratt's French more class president and halfback and Benjamin H. 10 Lynn, another student, for assault on Pratt's room-ward square table tennis and M. Smith for Harold S. drug clerk, who was hit by a man.

Sheffey John H. Fairbanks Essex County walked into the room as the name of Standish. He said he was a former assistant manager of the Boston Herald. He said he was the first witness. He said he did not know Pratt.

Then Policeman Pryor was in the stand and was questioned by City Solicitor Nettigan in detail.

The policeman testified was standing in Harvard square
1 a. m., last Saturday, when

Officer Pryor went into the street and ordered the students to disperse and go to their rooms. Some of the students pushed a taxicab up and down the street, according to the police.

An egg hurtled through the air, witness testified, and hit Officer Pryor in the back of his uniform coat, the yellow down, and as he looked down at the stain, a student drew back and pitched him in the face.

"With the punch arose from the crowd: 'Get him the officer. 'I drew my club above my head, then a gun and showed it and yell I'd drop the first man the near me.

LOVE LED CAROL TO 'SHIRK HIS BIRTHRIGHT'

By WILLIAM P. CARNEY
(Copyright, 1927, International News Service)

Park, Feb. 18.—Prince Carol of Romania has only one regret over his renunciation of his rights to the throne, and that is a "feeling" that he has "shirked obligations that came as a birthright."

The Prince made this statement today in an interview with the International News Service. The first interview he has accorded an American correspondent since his dramatic departure from Bucharest.

Prince Carol declined for the first time that he has abdicated twice, once for the sake of Zizi Lambrino, and again through what he now regards was a misunderstanding.

"I abdicated the first time for love of Zizi Lambrino," explained the prince. "She was to become a mother and I would not forsake her, but my mother asked me to return to command my regiment only until the end of the war."

"This seemed reasonable and just my patriotic duty, so I agreed, and the next day my love letters to Zizi were published."

"My abdication resulted largely from misunderstanding, I believe."

"Political enemies presented the addition papers to me and pointed out that I was considered a disgrace to my family. I thought this step was taken at the instigation of my family and signed the papers in anger."

Questioned whether he was happy now that he is away from Romanian politics, Prince Carol replied with apparent sincerity: "I believe the political intrigues of Bucharest."

"When asked if the life he now leads with Miss Lambrino was preferable to his life as Crown Prince, Carol showed the first signs of anger and then hurried to explain:

"The life I am leading now would be preferable if I didn't have no sense of duty ever before me," he said.

"I would like to see my father, because he is desperately ill and I might be of some comfort to him," the Prince added.

"Jim," I says to this college boy detective here, "you're a great kid; you can skip two recesses and make Harvard next term."

"He doesn't put springs in the patrol wagon I won't ride in it again."

"Just! Say I've worn out more of them than you've ever seen."

"What other prisoners were near me? Say, there wasn't anybody near me. I'm an exclusive prisoner."

"What do I sign for, sergeant? A room and bath?"

"This is a swell hotel you have here; I'm coming back to visit you some day."

"Prohibition agents? They're nice boys. Give them enough rope and they'll do an imitation of Will Rogers."

"Well, gotta go home and get some sleep; I'm working tonight. And tell the world for me I'll be at the club from now on."

"I earn my money, I make more than President Coolidge, but he can't Charleston, so I'm entitled to it."

"The worst thing I ever do is to make talks stay up all night. And I don't have to force them to do that."

"I love these cop fellows. When I die I want one of them for pall-bearers."

The Thrill of Love and Millions Abounds in Every Chapter

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR
The story of the love between the two young people, the girl who is the daughter of a millionaire and the boy who is the son of a poor man, is a story of the most thrilling and dramatic nature. The girl, who is the daughter of a millionaire, is a beautiful and charming young woman. The boy, who is the son of a poor man, is a handsome and brave young man. They meet and fall in love, but their love is opposed by the girl's father, who is a very rich and powerful man. The boy, however, is determined to win the girl, and he does so by a series of adventures and hardships. The story is a classic tale of love and class, and it is one of the most popular stories of the day.

Yesterday the American and Advertiser gained 25th classification over them corresponding day of last year.

It is not the Black Evening American that is to credit his readers with any more "ideas," frequently enunciated by his papers, for the interest in the "Black Evening American" is more than that of the other major black evening news papers.

This paper is to interest readers especially for the women who read this paper. The Black Evening American is the only black evening newspaper in the United States that has a large number of female editors and reporters.

GENE TUNNEY World's Heavyweight Champion

Tunney Tells of His Greatest Two Minutes in the Ring--Is Almost Decapitated by K. O. Sullivan--But Wins by a Knock Out

EVER hear of K. O. Sullivan? Not Well, that gets you into company with about 116,000,000 other Americans. Yet this very name K. O. Sullivan came within a punch or two of blocking the pathway that led me finally to the pugilistic heights.

I thought my head had been ripped from my body. For a second everything was black. This should have seemed to be a warning signal.

Sullivan's left jabbed me in the head at the moment of impact. I thought my head had been ripped from my body. For a second everything was black. This should have seemed to be a warning signal.

"YOU'RE MOVE, DAN"

SCHOOL SIXES Clash Tonight

By ring battle were deemed to be public affairs and by punches, there would be no sense in sending Jack Delaney into the ring with Jimmy Maloney at Madison Square Garden tonight. The public voted 10 to 1 for the Flashing Delaney in a poll taken along Broadway late last night and during the afternoon this morning.

Delaney's manager, Dan Carroll, said he was confident of his fighter's victory. He said that Delaney was a "real fighter" and that he was "in the best of his health".

Maloney's manager, Jerry Gardner, said that his fighter was "in the best of his health" and that he was "in the best of his health".

Delaney's wife, Mrs. Jack Delaney, said that she was "in the best of her health" and that she was "in the best of her health".

Maloney's wife, Mrs. Jimmy Maloney, said that she was "in the best of her health" and that she was "in the best of her health".

1. The first step is to identify the key components of the system. This includes understanding the hardware, software, and data involved. The next step is to define the goals and objectives of the project. This involves determining what the system is intended to achieve and how it will be evaluated. The third step is to design the system architecture. This includes defining the overall structure of the system, the components it will consist of, and how they will interact. The fourth step is to develop the system. This involves writing the code, configuring the hardware, and testing the system. The final step is to deploy the system. This involves installing the system on the target environment and monitoring its performance.

Build Strength In Place of Weakness

Perhaps you are one of many who are convalescing after a troublesome cold or cough or possibly grippe and find that your strength is at rather low ebb.

At such times it is all-important that you be well-nourished, and nothing quite equals pure, emulsified cod-liver oil to help build strength in place of weakness.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF PURE VITAMIN-TESTED COD-LIVER OIL

is the effective means that thousands use daily to help re-establish health and vigor. Containing as it does a wealth of health-promoting cod-liver oil vitamins it is the very help the weakened body needs.

If you are convalescing from a cold, cough, grippe or other respiratory infection—we strongly recommend the regular use of Scott's Emulsion for at least thirty days.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN--BY HELEN ROWLAND

THE married woman is the world's greatest menace, according to Lady Blithedale, a British business woman.

"This news will fill half the American women with hollow musing laughter--and the other half with consuming curiosity to SEED a 'falsified woman!'"

Most of the women ever here get all their "religion" after a hard day's work at the office, or after they've finished the housework and put the kiddies to bed. And then, they are too frayed out, to do any really vital "musing!"

In this fair land, it is the strenuous woman who is becoming the greatest menace. It is the fifty-fifty wife who holds down a job all day, and then comes home and gets the dinner, to show how "independent" she is. By padding life for a man with nice soft cushions, and lifting the mortgage, the insurance, and all the burdens and responsibilities off his soul, she leaves him plenty of time and energy to run around to poker games, John golf clubs, and have afternoon tea with leisureed blondes and flappers.

But making life one long sweat song for the human male never yet strengthened his backbone or his morals or inspired him to high achievement!

The average man is a born playboy, and the only thing that keeps him out of mischief is that some tender, hapless little thing gets him landed in matrimony. In the game, and the first thing he knows he is hunting for the money to pay the baby's shoes and send Junior to college.

A busy man is always a pretty good man. He's hard for Satan or a woman to "fix." A man who is cheating the almighty dollar, struggling for the rent money, or pursuing an ambition or a fortune.

He doesn't even SEED the "Wop" look and lithe figure.

Most men are good husbands and fathers and citizens, until they happen to acquire so much money, that they have the time to run around in high-powered cars, with ladies of low-powered mentality--and murder it.

A ticket-seller in a circus took a man over to a small tent, lifted the flap, and let him gaze at two skeletons.

"The big skeleton is the skeleton of Napoleon," said the ticket-seller. "And what is the little one?" asked the ticket-buyer.

"Why, that is the skeleton of Napoleon when he was a boy."

How to Have Soft, Pretty White Hands

Many women will undoubtedly be glad to know how they may have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands regardless of the work they have to do. The secret lies in rubbing a little face-cream into the hands occasionally, preferably two or three times a day. In the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application.

BOY'S BODY WAS COVERED WITH SEVERE ITCHING RASH

Skin now without a blemish

Rebel, Maine, July 15--"About seven years ago my nephew developed a severe case of skin trouble which looked like eczema. His face, neck and whole body were covered with the trouble and his skin became raw from scratching. Many ointments and remedies were tried without success before Rosin Soap and Ointment were prescribed. The first few applications stopped the itching and soon he was entirely healed. He now has the loveliest skin I ever saw and, thanks to Rosin Soap and Ointment, no unsightly blotches mark the least of his complexion."

MEDICAL science tells us: "To avoid a BIG cold, stop a little one." And here's the ideal treatment: Take a rest; a laxative; a light diet; and rub Vicks on throat and chest! Vicks acts on colds two ways at once: (1) Its medicated vapors, released by the body heat, are breathed direct to the inflamed air passages; (2) it stimulates the skin like a poultice.

Use this treatment at the first sign of every little cold and big colds will be almost unknown to you.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reappointment of Congressional representation immediate.

By after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.

3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.

4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish literacy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Suppose All China Were At Once Armed for Fighting. What Then?

A TYPICAL SOLDIER OF THE CHINESE TROOPS.

This soldier, carrying a modern rifle, several "Mills" bombs and a good supply of cartridges, represents the fighting China of today. He is one of the thousands of Chinese who are fighting the revolution in the Cantonese forces that seem to be over-whelming China with their revolutionary enthusiasm. In addition, the Chinese are fighting the Great Britain and other European nations, anxious about their "concessions," their rights on Chinese territory and the profits from Chinese trade.

You notice a little white ornament on the soldier's cap. That is called the "Emblem of the White Sun" and distinguishes the revolutionary Cantonese.

Among these forces and other forces in China there are said to be earnest propagandists from Russia saying to the Chinese, "You are as good as those Europeans that rule you, and BETTER, for your civilization is older." No one knows what will come out of the Chinese uprising. At present one crowd of Chinese is fighting another crowd of Chinese, which often happens in Asia.

In India Great Britain's power is upheld by the natives' hatred of each other. Mohammedine fighting Hindus, that eat pork, which the Mohammedans won't eat, the Hindu hating the Mohammedans, who eat beef, which the Hindu's religion forbids.

The question interesting to us is, "What would happen if China's 400,000,000 population, united under powerful fighting direction, should turn its attention toward the white races?" With such leaders as Asia has had in the past, Atilla, or especially Jengh Khan, such modern weapons and flying machines, the world's history might change violently.

Loyal American Patronage

That is the Only Hope of an Effective American Merchant Marine

No American with a working mind behind his brow can afford to forget some of the truths which Senator Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, recalled in the Senate a few days ago. He was speaking of his hobby, an American merchant marine. He was telling how, at the beginning of the World War, we shipped but THE PER CENT of our foreign commerce in vessels flying the American flag; how that conflict swept the oceans clear of available neutral ships; how marine freight rates soared until, from a gift to foreign carriers of a hundred or so million dollars a year, our business men jumped the tribute to FIVE TIMES as much.

Then he reminded us how, when we were drawn into the war, we rushed THREE THOUSAND MILLION dollars, more than the estimated value of all the merchant ships in the world in 1914, into the brave but ineffective attempt to improvise a commercial navy.

At which point he asked the question which we wish you would ponder.

"Why was this necessary? Because we did not have a merchant marine to meet the need growing out of the war."

And we did not have it, primarily for this reason. Because our great commercial interests, which are rapidly increasing their profitable trade throughout the world, have not been as patriotic toward their country's flag on salt water as they are toward the flag on the land.

Many explanations abound as to why it has been difficult to build up an American merchant marine. Some will tell you that it is because our tariff makes American shipping costly; others that we pay too high wages to and demand too luxurious treatment for American seamen. But neither high wages nor good treatment of labor are handicaps upon the land.

They would not be upon the sea if even half of the commerce controlled by American business men were routed in American ships. These American business men are inviting again precisely the situation which gave them such concern between the years 1914 and 1919.

Richest Man in the World

ANGER A HIGH LIGHT OF LIFE TODAY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

EVERY once in a while you read of some great man or some good man that he was never subject to strong passions, that he never fell into the tantrums or spoke in a loud voice nor otherwise fought or nearly fought. All very well; but would life be very interesting with out of these superior beings?

And do they themselves not miss something which after all is the most stirring, if not the best, part of the story? There is something to be said in favor of anger, petulance, stinks, quarrels, and blues, also fights.

They are the high lights. They are the brilliant reds and pinks of life. Of course, too much of them smacks of vulgarity. But who wants his days all drab?

These strong tempers we are supposed to inherit from our savage ancestors. They belong to our "lower nature." But it is not along the substratum of our lower selves that we are most akin?

We are animals, after all, why turn up our noses at the fact that we are not a deal of this super-spirituality largely streaked with affection?

Washington came within an inch of being last forever in "the hearts of his countrymen"; it was his little swearing episode that saved him.

The jagged words the Nazarene buried at the Pharisees, and his chasing the money-changers from the Temple, link him strongly to our humanity.

BOSTON DAY

By ELsie Robinson

If you want to "get" a man how shall you go about it?

If you shoot him, knife him, feed him poison, bomb his home or beat him up, the police will pounce on you and you'll pay heavily for your crime with perfect safety. Make a scandalous complaint against him.

It will not matter in the least if the charges are ultimately proved false. You will be sitting pretty. You'll have gotten your man into a position of danger to himself and American laws and American sentiment will have helped you out your dirty work.

Consider the recent case of a famous comedian. As I write, his case has not yet come to trial. But already the world knows the unpleasant details of the forenoon session which his wife brought against him, and his home life is a secret.

He has now many days disports three charges, but nothing can ever drive him out of his home. He is a victim on his name-always people who are "scandalized."

Recently another famous movie star underwent this same degradation. An old-fashioned man, a charming "wildwest" type, was the victim of his own wife's story before the birth of their child.

The exaggerated civility which this man depicted on the screen happened to be ingrained in his own nature. He would not fight a woman, and the divorce court, and made no defense. As a consequence his name was damaged and his life wrecked. He has never "come back."

Today he is a broken reed. Nor is this sort of thing restricted to wives. Charges are constantly being brought against prominent men, demanding damages for various reasons, and the victim is left with a broken name.

PADLOCK THE BATH TUBS—MAKE THE STAGE SAFE FOR DEMOCRACY.

PADLOCK THE BATH TUBS—MAKE THE STAGE SAFE FOR DEMOCRACY.

Many women intrigue a man with false promises in mind. Knowing full well that public sentiment can always be relied upon, they would down a man who is accused of certain offenses.

Knowing, also, that the judge must dare take the part of such a man against the fury of the voting mob. Ask any reputable attorney how many times he has been called upon to defend a man who is accused of certain offenses.

When I read a serious address by Professor H. P. Cady of the University of Kansas, about "students who reach the university unable to read the alphabet," I was reminded of the "educational" efforts of the "educational" press.

At this time when the "educational" press is so busy in maintaining its position, it is more than ever anxious to stick to the principle of the "educational" press.

The training will carry him to the top, if he cares or needs to go. But he can never get up if he is "educational" in the "educational" press.

Speed and Education
